

In the Specification:

Please insert the following new heading and paragraph after existing paragraph [0004]:

SUMMARY

[0004.1] A method and apparatus are described for generating custom source code for a control point based upon device-specific information or platform information for the device without utilizing a control point stack. For one embodiment, the source code may be enhanced by the utilization of a custom parser.